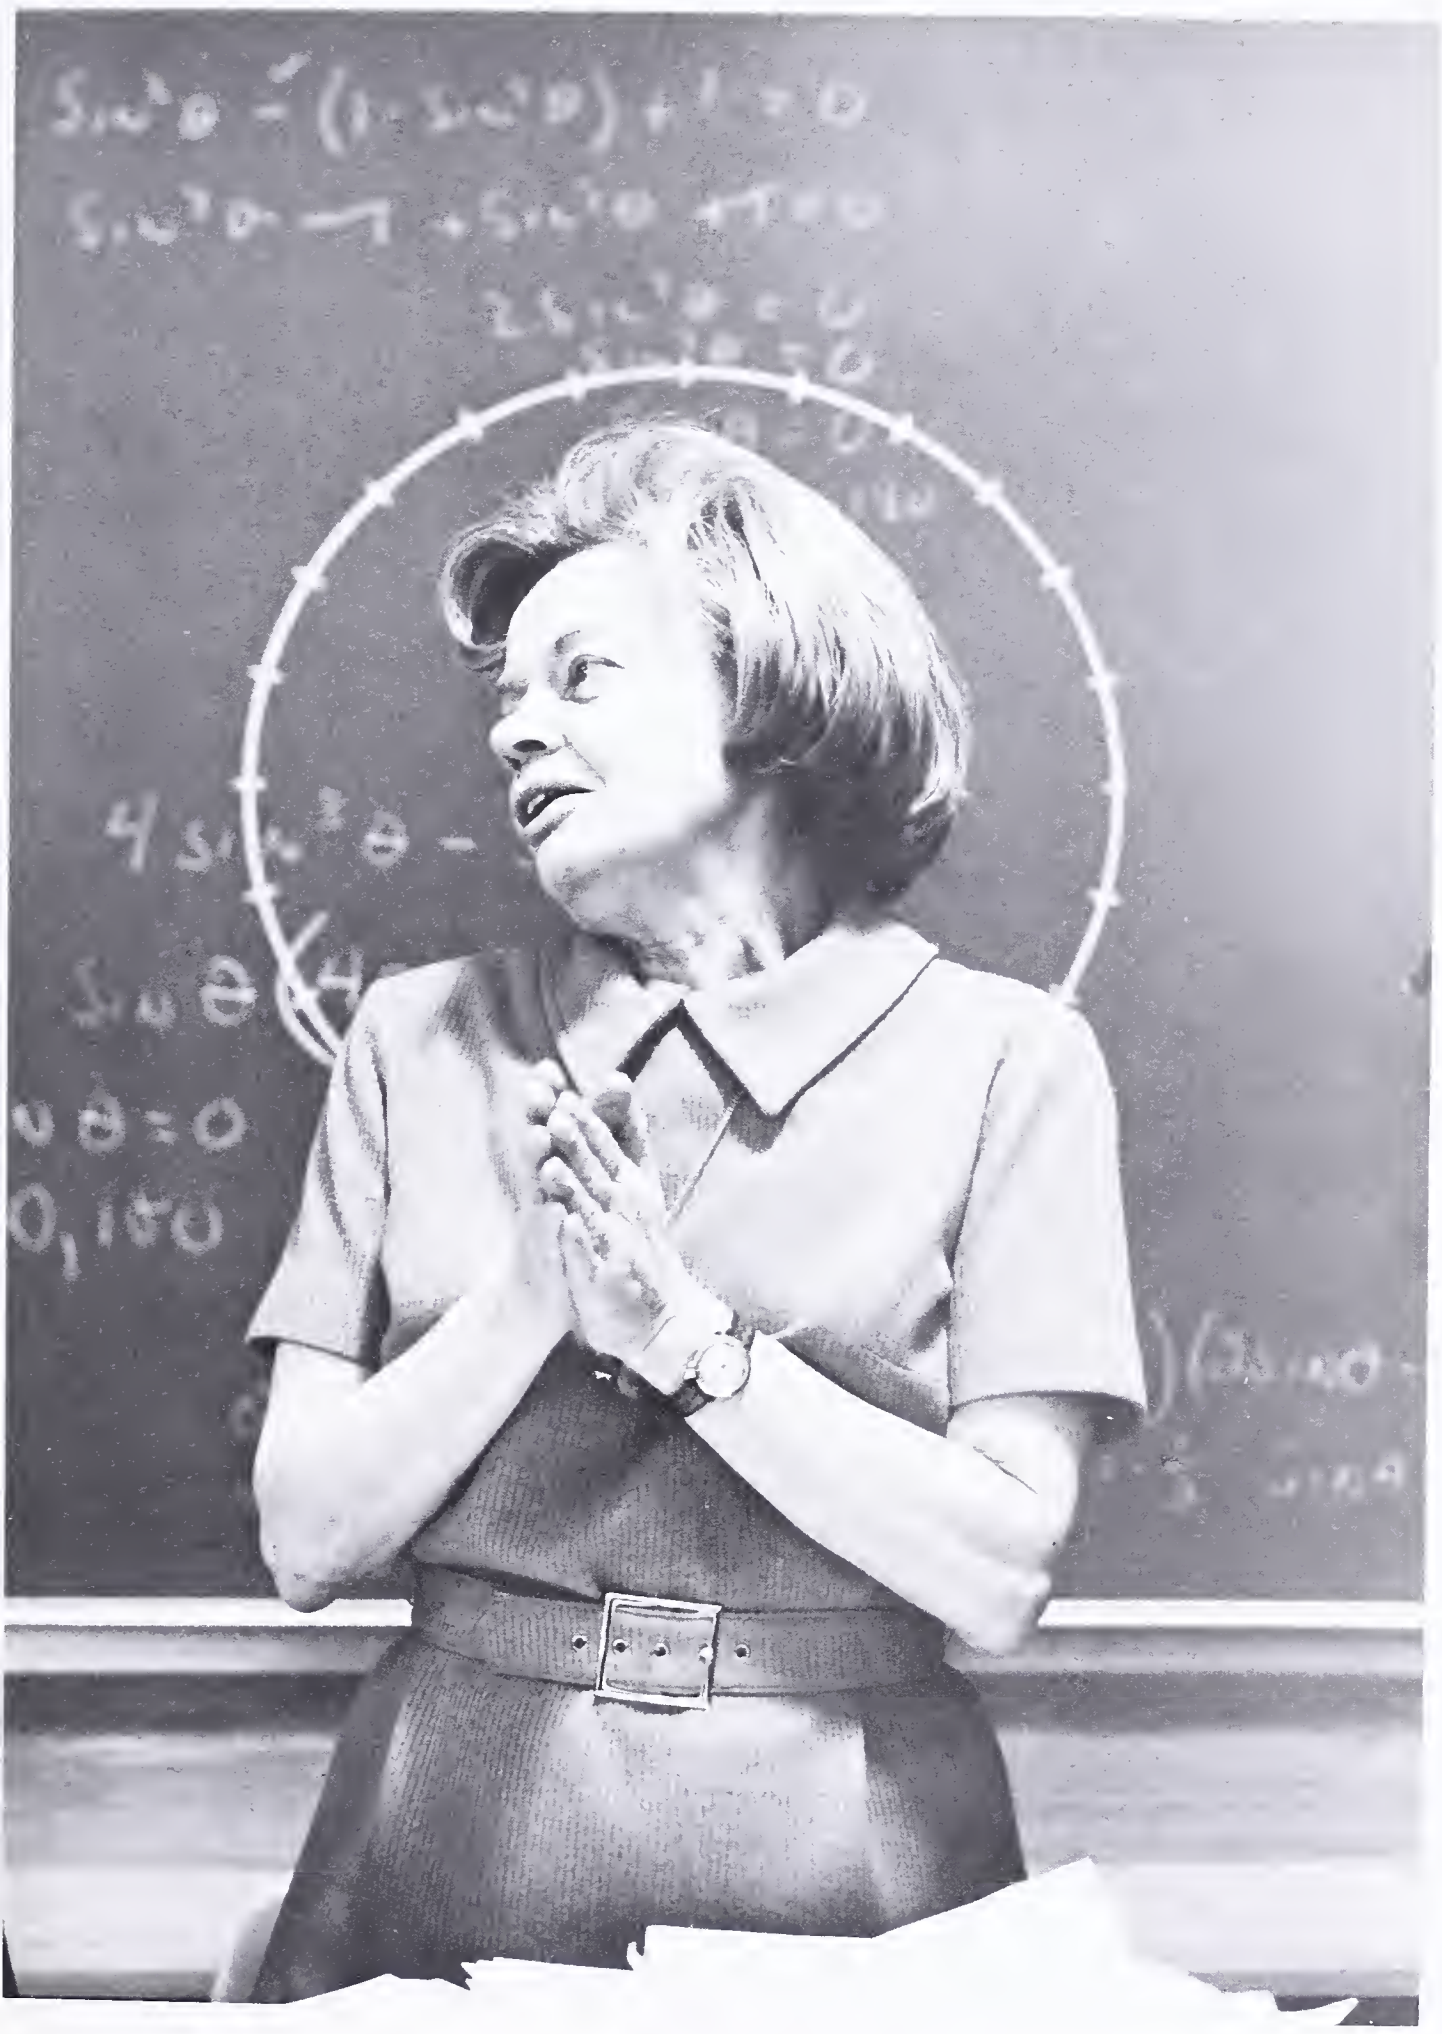
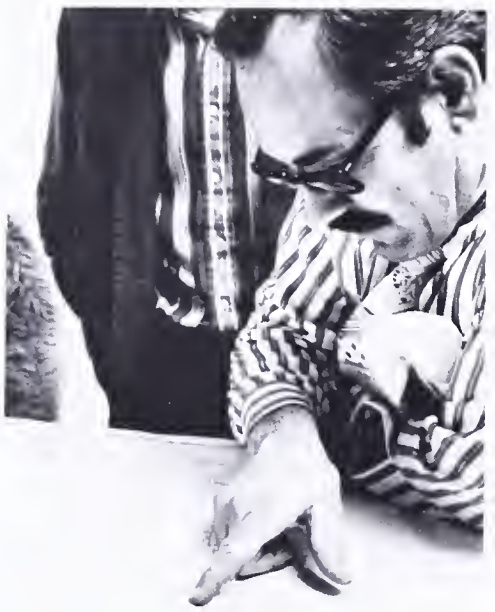
YORK



CLAY OR

Homecoming Week began on Tuesday, November 14, Hick Day, with overalls, straw hats, and nominations for the Homecoming Court. Students and teachers got into the festive spirit by wearing outlandish clothes. Daisy Mae skirts and plaid shirts then gave way to calf-length circle skirts, round-collar blouses, and tee-shirts for Wednesday's costumes; ponytails and D.A.'s topped the 50's day look. On Thursday, an aura of magic was felt as ghouls, witches, fairies and Little-Bo-Peeps came out for Fantasy Day. Friday, everyone turned out in school colors to show spirit on Black and Gold Day. The Court was now official and the choosing of the Queen began. Votes were cast during Homeroom and counted that afternoon; the result would be announced at half time of the football game. A large crowd turned out to watch Groveton play Jefferson; half time showed a score of 7-0, and the parade of floats and princesses began. For the first time, the floats had a cohesive theme, Fantasy, that did not pertain primarily to the ball game. First prize went to the Junior Class's rendition of Mother Goose. The band and Drill Team circled the Court while Mr. Ross crowned Cindy Slater, escorted by David Markewitcz. The game recommenced; although Jefferson won by a score of 14-7 the fans saw an exciting game. Saturday night saw a dance sponsored by the Senior Class. There was a large turnout; the two bands were enjoyed by all who attended. It was thus over for another year; the week of make-believe, hasty building and anxious waiting ended on a pleasant note.

Last January, thanks to VICA, Groveton students were given an opportunity to put their ideals of helping others into practice in a unique way. The representatives of the Red Cross who came to the school were not in search of either money or volunteer time, neither of which are possessed in large quantities by most students, but rather blood. Any good biology student knows that anyone who is eligible to give has enough blood so that he will hardly miss the few corpuscles asked of him. Still, many Groveton students were reluctant to give to the bloodmobile. It seems that the average student's fundamental desire to do good was opposed by his fundamental fear of being pricked. Still a large propor- of the student body lay down on the table to give blood. The practical result was to help save lives, a fact which seemed to deal a crowning blow to those philosophers at Groveton and elsewhere who are so vocal in reviling the idealism of youth.



THE NEW GROVETON

TO BE OR NOT TO BE

After eight years of promises, it appears that the School Board is finally going to give Groveton a new school. Building plans are ambitious, and the campus will be very different than the present one. The moving date, however, is not certain, and there are a number of problems which must be dealt with before the building is occupied.

The Bryant lot will include three separate buildings. One will house the Dramatic Arts, Musical Arts and Art Studies departments. Physical education, including a new gym and Vocational education will be housed in the old Bryant building along with administration offices. The third building will include two subschools, academic studies, and a large media center. The cafeteria will be in the third building, and will serve to bring academic, artistic and vocational students together.

Throughout the history of the new Groveton, completion deadlines have been constantly pushed back. This year, however, it appears that the date of September, 1976, may be moved up to January. In this case, the move would be made during the middle of the next school year. The actual completion date is unknown to anyone, and will largely depend on the condition of the housing industry; whether or not there are extra workers to devote to the project. Principal Ross hopes that the move will not have to be made until September because a mid-year move would add to the problems of going to the new building.

Such a move would involve a massive shift of file cabinets, audio-visual equipment, textbooks and other materials in a short time. In addition, the confusion of a first day in school with new bus routes and classroom assignments would ensue. Even if the move occurs during the summer, however, there will be problems. One of the two theatres being planned has no seats, and they may not even be installed until a year after the students move in. There are no girls' restrooms at this time, a problem that must be solved unless the school is to be part of a bold social experiment. Most importantly, the mode of education at the new Groveton is as yet ill-defined. There will be movable partitions rather than permanent walls, but the extent to which students will be involved in "open classrooms" has not been determined. Decisions as to the course of education at the new building must be made before it is ready for use.

The effects of the new school on the students is not yet known. There is, however, the chance for a better place to learn. This is what Groveton has been asking for for so long, and this is what Groveton is going to receive, sooner or later.

AWARDS

Although it is much disparaged today, the practice of pursuing definite, tangible goals is commendable. Whether the goal is to run 100 yards in a certain amount of time, receive an "A" in a class, or win an award being offered by someone, it is a challenge, and the achievement of it is an accomplishment. Much of the rhetoric about seeking individual growth rather than pursuing artificial goals is merely a device to hide an unwillingness to attempt anything challenging. Everyone pursues goals, and most pursuits go unnoticed, but there are some accomplishments that stand out as the most important. These accomplishments are acknowledged in this section.

SPORTS

The differences between various "types" of students at Groveton is a subject that is often commented upon, and it is true that different groups of students have radically different interests, views of the purposes of school, and basic lifestyles. It is for that reason that organized sports are vitally important. More than anything else, they serve to bind the school together. People came together to cheer at football and basketball games who might never voluntarily appear together otherwise. Sports serve as a focal point for school spirit, a minimum of which is necessary to prevent the breakdown of all school functions. Everyone can identify with the school teams, and therefore indirectly with everyone else. Certainly yelling at games is not a panacea for all of a school's problems—students must make real sacrifices to achieve complete harmony—but at least it is a start.

Alas! There is no place today for traditionalism. Groveton's treasured reputation as a school whose athletic endeavors are predestined for less than the top is being challenged by Sherry James, a senior here and a national track star. Her series of achievements includes a world's record and she is setting her sights on the 1976 Olympics.

Sherry began her career only five years ago at Bryant Intermediate School. She was a successful athlete there, and at Groverton the next year, but it was not until the summer of 1972 that she achieved national recognition by placing second in the 440 in the U.S. Youth Games. In her Sophomore year, Sherry set a state record for the 440 as a member of the Groveton girl's track team. In her junior year, she helped set two American records in relays. As a senior, she has participated in numerous Amateur Athletic Union meets with the Sports International Track Team, Washington D.C. Her biggest accomplishment this year has been running on the relay team that broke the world record for the 880 sprint medley.

It is not known what Sherry's next achievement will be, but it is certain that she will continue to be at the very top of her sport. Her plans at this time emphasize the upcoming Pan American Games and then the Olympics. Only a handful of schools in the nation can boast of a student with comparable prospects.

WEST POINT

Ah Football! Our training for you begins as the August sun looks down: sweat, RUN, eat the dirt, RUN; a week of running. Football Camp: eat FOOTBALL, sleep FOOTBALL, learn FOOTBALL, live FOOTBALL. Headaches, bruises, blood . . . . . FATIQUE. School starts: practice at 3 o'clock, school the next morning; the pattern begins to take shape. The Fridays: lockers decorated by secret pals, halls strewn with crepe paper and posters—GO TIGERS GO. The pep rallies: the cheerleaders coaxing the people into yelling, introducing the teams. It's finally here—FRIDAY NIGHT: nervousness and excitement in the locker room, the pep talk, the prayer, the walk to the field. Oh, the wait to start: The National Anthem, the coin toss, the announcing. The BATTLE begins—kick-off; WINNING is the only goal now. After the game: If we win we're HEROES, if we lose we're "typical Groveton".

Groveton's school spirit has been bolstered this year by three groups, the cheerleaders, the drill team, and the pep club. These groups have decorated and filled with candy the lockers of the school's athletes, covered the walls of the school with black and gold paper, and cheered with abandon at sports events. In addition, they have beguiled spectators during many a halftime with stunning or cute routines. Without the Friday afternoon hall marchings, Groveton would not be the same.

FACULTY

Undoubtedly the most important part of any school is its teachers. A brand new building and thousands of dollars for athletic equipment can help, but good teachers are needed if good education is going to take place. Groveton has more than adequately fulfilled this requisite. Our teachers, in their implementation of educational theories and philosophies, have experience backing them. The flexible system which both teacher and student participates, requires sagacity, patience, and understanding on both sides to flow as well as it does at Groveton.

Collapsed into a heavy brown chair
Letting tears of sweat fall freely
And relieved, the actor relives
His last, good performance.
He is not hungry anymore he realizes as he pours himself a glass of wine.
Other friends and actors
are due to his doorstep soon:
There are twenty brown chairs for them to fall into.

Through special classes and on-the-job training, some students are gathering experiences they will need in their careers.

Certainly moderate doses of English, Mathematics, History, and Science have a place in every student's education. There is also, however, a need for something less abstract, something more easily applicable to their future. Vocational Education is designed to provide that needed element. It makes high school a more valuable period in the life of its students. They have the option of learning a skill, and these skills vary from teaching small children to acquiring an electrician's techniques. Through this program, students have a chance to learn the skills and demands of their intended careers.

CLASSES

How can we express what we feel as we enter a new world different from anything we've ever experienced before? What are our emotions? Confusion? Bewilderment? We all experience these feelings as freshmen trying to make our way through a maze of new situations. We watch the others, all older and wiser than we. It is they who create the heartbeat of the school, and at first we are only observers as they join themselves together into a vibrant force. Then we feel the heartbeat ourselves. It pulses about us, forcing us into its rhythm. Finally, we are a part of it. We are still freshmen, but we are full members of the school.

SOPHOMORE CLASS

Ah, another class entering its second year at Groveton High . . .The halls slowly fill with familiar and unfamiliar faces as the sounds of life buzz through the halls. Before we know it, we have to decide what the theme of our Homecoming float will be. Alice in Wonderland—a great idea. Well, second place isn't that bad.

They say all good things must come to an end (I bet a teacher made that up), and sophomores are eventually faced with the terrible task of buckling down to work. English essay due on Thursday, Math test on Friday, do your biology questions over the weekend. It's a wonder we survived our freshman year! Well, at least we aren't freshmen taking abuse from the upperclassmen anymore. No sir, now we're the abusers. So look on the bright side. The class of '77 will survive the next two years and maybe (if we're lucky) our teachers won't.

JUNIOR CLASS

Ever since our Freshman year, we Juniors have been criticized, chastized, and underestimated. "A disgrace", "a discredit", "the worst to ever hit Groveton", said members of other classes. Some of these accusations have a base in truth, but most are largely false. Our class has its share of misfits and "bottom-of-the barrel-ers". All classes do. But these few are far overshadowed by the many members of our class who have done so much for themselves and the name of the school. Academic achievers, community workers, and participants in extra-curricular activities have always been plentiful among us. And yes, we have our share of jocks, too.

But more important is the spirit that our class exhibits. Few groups have cared as much about the well-being of their school. Some might call us trouble-makers, but we possess within ourselves the belief that our school can be a better place in which to learn. Nothing is perfect, but we are working towards a school that can be called much better than most.

In one year Groveton will have seen the last of our class. When we leave, the school will lose a class brimming with personality and character.

SENIOR CITY

Groveton has taught us many things. In lieu of being philosophical and wondering whether graduation is a beginning or an end, we have decided to list some of these lessons in order to spare future classes the pain and agony of discovering them for themselves . . . .

1. Speak glowingly of those above you and heed their advice—even if they be turkeys.
2. Don't lend money and expect it to be returned. When someone says "May I borrow" he means "May I have".
3. Don't leave cafeteria trays unattended. Some Groveton students work their way through college on tray deposits.
4. When someone says "High" to you don't say "Yes".
5. When you see a faculty member looking for someone, ask him if he lost his crayons.
6. Having a substitute means having a free class.
7. And finally, don't forget to show your school spirit by saving the grass from your easter basket to fill in the bald spots on the football field.

I really think it's cold enough . . . The sky looks so dark . . . The radio said 2-4 inches . . . Do you think . . . Test 4th period . . . Hope it snows . . . Overriding it all was the bus's new 2-way radio with its beeps, static and monotonous dispatches, breaking up and blending with the early morning chatter. Soon this brisk, still, dark January morning would turn to an even darker day, lighted only by the glare of falling snow. With every drifting cottonball went a student's wish for an early release. Please Mr. Ross, announce it before English! Finally it came. Excuse me for interrupting . . . leave at 12:10 . . . tell you more during 4th period . . . Class as usual until further notice. Snowball fight in Project Paradise! Everybody meet up on the hill for sledding! Oh, where else but Fairfax County would 3 inches of snow bring 3 days of NO SCHOOL (Well, 2½). Who cares about making it up; we'll worry about that in June!

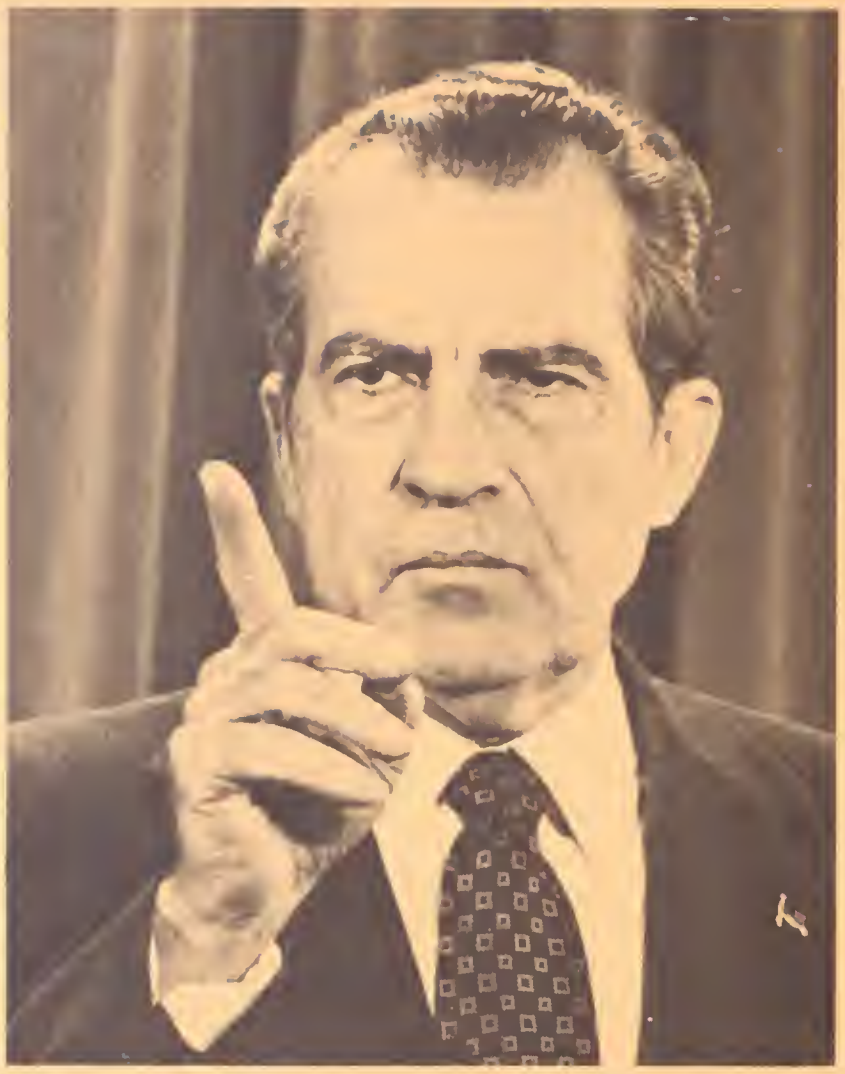
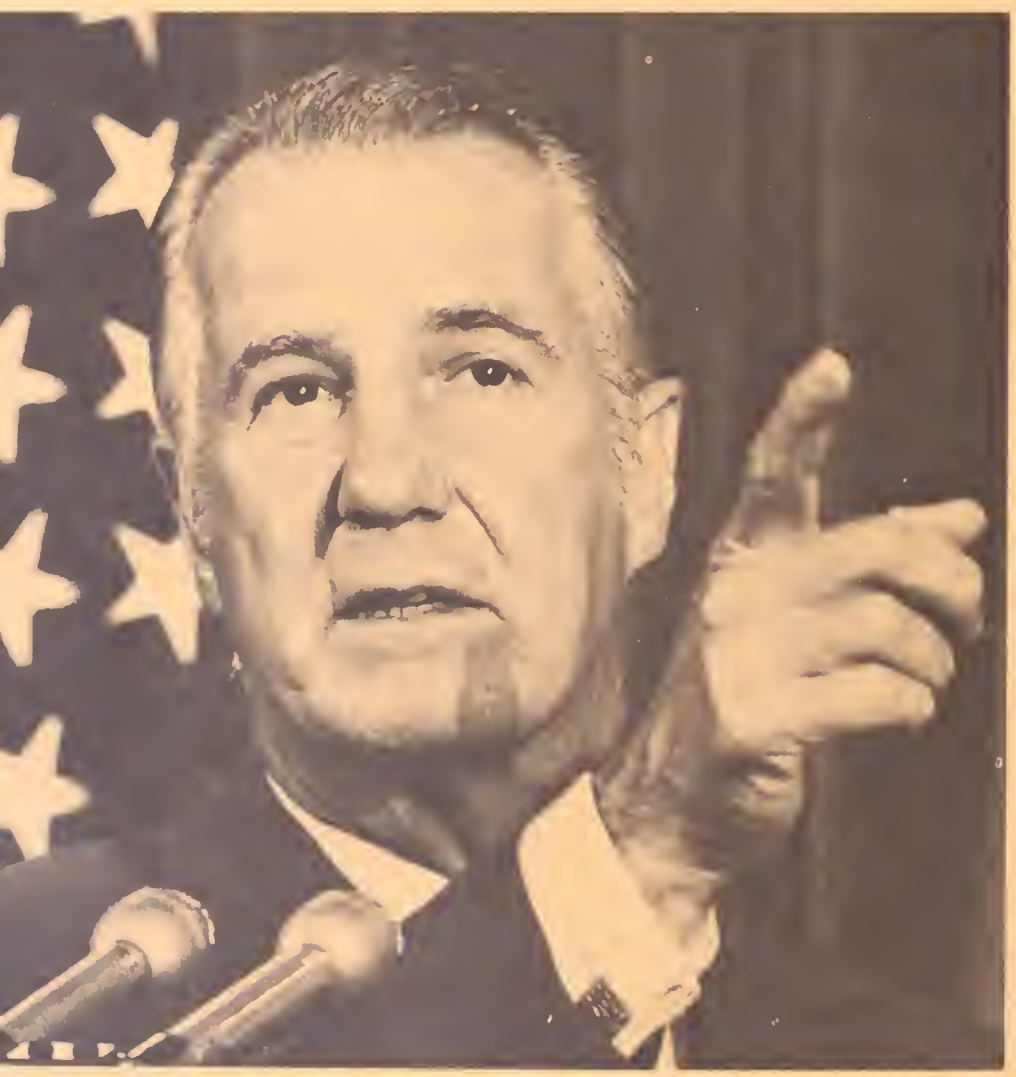
THE YEAR 1974 ~ 1975



Former President Richard Nixon



Former Vice-President Spiro Agnew

The past year has seen one of the greatest political upheavals of America's history. We have a new President and Vice-President (not elected in a general election), a surprisingly reform-minded Congress, and an unparalleled economic situation for them all to deal with.

1973 saw the second resignation and first criminal conviction of a Vice-President in history. 1974 was even more historically important, for it saw the downfall of a President and the succession to the Presidency of a man directly responsible only to the voters of Grand Rapids, Michigan. Moreover, the leadership of Gerald Ford was challenged by a heavily Democratic Congress.

This was the Congress which expressed the wishes of the people after two years of Watergate, which seemed to confirm doubts as to the motives of those in government. Once a haven for out-of-touch party hacks, Capitol Hill became a place where leaders were quickly dismissed if they seemed unresponsive. The full-scale revolution, caused largely by the '75 new Democratic Representatives, was unprecedented.

While the government was busy reforming itself, the economic situation in the country was deteriorating. The symptoms of both an overheated and a sluggish economy—inflation and unemployment, respectively—were felt at the same time. With the standard of living of Americans falling off, some predicted a new depression. The government's response to these problems is still to be seen.

America was faced with major crises in 1974 and 1975, but she has been faced with such crises in the past. There is every indication, however, that America will be able to come together, put recent political history behind her, and solve the problems facing her people.

President Gerald Ford

Vice-President Nelson Rockefeller

Our lives are affected by many things, but few have the incalculable impact of television, movies and books.

There are pros and cons of the question of the value of television viewing, but neither side can deny the way in which it has influenced our lives. The "Golden-Age" of radio has been followed by the "Golden-Age" of television. The majority of high school students spend between two and three hours per day watching the boob-tube. Social scientists have even gone as far as to suggest that a majority of our social ills can be directly traced to the T.V. Children grow up more quickly nowadays, and become aware of the world at a much earlier age then in years past. Whether your opinion of television is good, bad or indifferent, you must admit that the small box in your living room is an important fixture and will continue to be one for many years to come.

As in the case of television, the motion picture industry has its adversaries and its allies. However, unlike television, its "Golden-Age" is long gone. This does not mean, however, that its influence on us has loosened. Far from it. Although going to the movies is no longer a weekly ritual with most families, the industry's usefulness as a conversation stimulator cannot be overlooked. Few people have not seen "The Godfather" or "Blazing Saddles", and fewer still would pass up the opportunity to discuss them.

Books, on the other hand, have few adversaries. A well-read person can broaden his horizons greatly without ever leaving his home. The trauma of life in a Siberian prison camp could be felt merely by delving into the best selling Gulag Archeppelao, bringing experiences from another part of the world into our laps.

Can we change the world? It's possible, but we must first examine those elements which greatly influence our lives. Understanding the impact of the media helps us to better see ourselves.

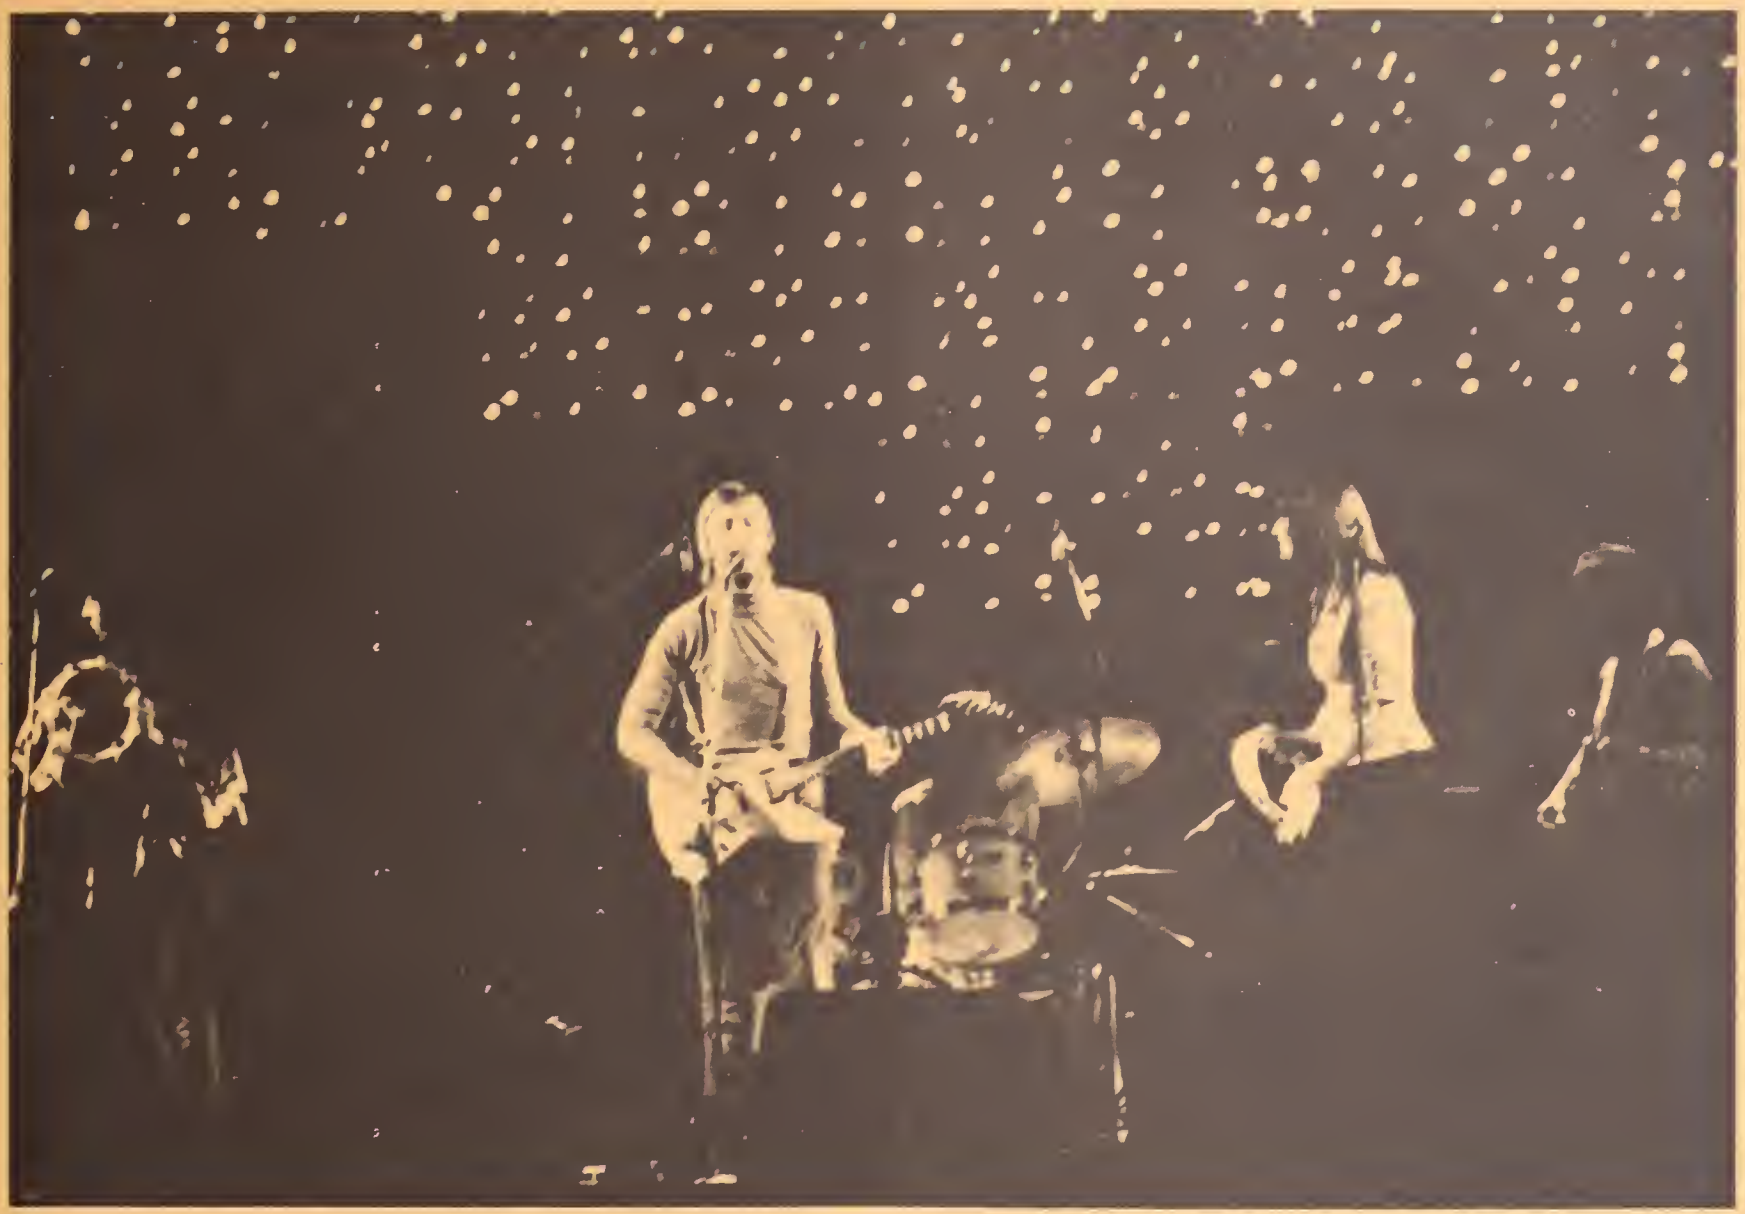
WPGC Radio Station



The Capital Centre, with it's enormous seating capacity and ideal location, drew some true "superstars" to D.C. this season, and Groveton added its share of avid concert-goers to the crowd. Students were attracted for different reasons; some because a big name was coming to town, some because they genuinely appreciated the music, and still others because they knew it was going to be the biggest party around. Whatever the reasons, Grovetonites were among the students who came in hordes to see such names as Eric Clapton, Led Zeppelin, and Elton John. They pulled into the parking lot and piled out of smoked-filled cars, stretching cramped limbs and screaming with glee. Whatever their different interests—the selection of Groveton students was surprisingly varied—they poured into the building with one purpose—to celebrate. And as the music resounded through the vast building, celebrate they did.

In the District of Columbia, numerous Groveton students enjoyed many a fine bluegrass or jazz show. D.A.R. Constitution Hall, having conceded its place as the number one concert hall in the area to the Capital Centre, drew many less well-known but remarkably talented shows. While the crowds were smaller, the merry-making was every bit as intense. There, as at the Baltimore Civic Center, Cole Field House, and the Capital Centre, it was clear that concerts were a major interest of Groveton students.

As they have for years, Groveton students in 1974-75 obeyed the current fads and fashions in clothing. Judicious moderation was the theme in skirts, as the midi became popular. Continuing to follow national fashion trends, numerous female students attempted the dangerous feat of balancing precariously on top of enormous platform shoes. Students were rustic in overalls, bundled in scarves and jewelry. Hair, belonging to both guys and girls, was cut shorter and molded into waves, cornrow and curls. True devotees, however, were few—jeans and long hair were still plentiful.

Washington, D.C., is a complex political machine, the heartbeat of the most powerful nation in the world. Because of its nearness to the nation's capitol, the Alexandria area is exposed to much not felt elsewhere. Offerings of D. C. range from contemplating great works of art, to reviewing Government officials on trial, to rooting for a winning professional football team.

The Washington Suburbs draw to them diplomats, politicians and military leaders. A midwesterner reading about famous senators or congressmen is impressed by their titles. As we read, or watch firsthand, the same news, we know that behind these titles are only men. They live just around the corner, just down the road. It is their offspring who comprise our classmates.

The unique conglomeration of opinions and lifestyles observable to Grovetonites affects our thinking and viewpoints, giving us an exposure not always enjoyed by Americans.

Webster's rather illustriously defines socialize es: to make fit for living end getting along in a group; make social. Groveton rather gregariously defines socialize as: to make fit for a party. This is not to say that a party life is the right kind of life for a high school student, but it sure isn't bad for whoever can pull if off—and quite a few people have. We do, of course, need that convincing group of students who cen show the faculty just cause to cell G.H.S. en institution of upper learning.

The student body here et Groveton is extremely diverse, which is typical. The students here find an incredible array of things to do with their social time, which is also typical. I wonder how I wound up with this assignment, also typical. I guess I wasn't thinking when I seid yes or something or maybe I just didn't want to see a copy editor cry in public. I will probably receive grief from sections of the student body about being misrepresented, and God knows we have some sweet student bodies. To them I say bite the bullet, or write the article yourself next year.

I have found that some students spend their time profitably and others do not. Quite a few people work either after school, at night, or on the weekend. Some people who don't work wish they did, and quite a few who do wish they didn't. Some groups of students stay around the school after 2:10 for groups, clubs, sports, organizations, or essistance. Others, God help them, just stay around the school. A major bulk of the students leave the building promptly at 2:10 by what ever means they can lay their hands on—cers, buses, bikes, feet, hands and knees, wheelchairs, etc. . . . . .

The most common social activities at Groveton include something as follows: hanging out in groups of five or six while complaining about how "nothing ever happens around here"; an ignorant and terribly overworked expression. Others spend long hours rebuilding their cars to a tee so that they can have a few hours of fun driving their work into the ground on the major drags. Some spend their time playing cards so much that a permanent deformation has occurred between the thumb and index fingers. Some spend evenings at the library shooting the breeze (and sometimes working). Some spend their time driving down Elba Road or Sherwood Hall Lane. Some people spend their time painting things (like cannons, stadiums, and windows). A lot of people waste e lot of time and ges on weekends trying to locate parties, not realizing thet everyone else is doing the same thing. Some people go on ski trips and do everything but ski. Some common hobbies ere tennis, volleyball, basketball, football, chess end sex. Sex is the most common but often the leest rewarding pastime at Groveton. Bowling and ice skating are other hobbies pursued. The week nights are generally all but dead. On Friday and Saturday nights, besketball and football games are a common attraction, after which Gino's and the Diplomat are descended upon with numbers rarely rivaled by anything short of e good fire.

The party is perhaps the single most important social activity around. It is more of an obsession than a motivation. When somebody announces a party, everybody in the school knows ebout it in less than 15 minutes and they all come. The host or hostess turns pele es his life passes before his eyes, watching in horror while 350 people try to cram their way into his three bedroom two end a helf bath, split-level coloniel house. Soon the police arrive and I boogie on out to my car and head 'em on home not stopping for anything. Occasionally there are much celmer, even invitational parties going on. These are given by the more privileged among us and take perhaps half an hour to turn into open house parties.

The cliques or groups are another important social factor. These are constantly changing and intermixing for the simple reason that people get sick of seeing the same people 24 hours a day and 7 days a week. All social entertainment reaching one in the group reaches all, and everything they do is done in numbers.

Sociel life at Groveton is es diverse as the people. What they do is limited by their mental and physical capabilities and sometimes, and only sometimes, by state and federal laws.

I felt a hollow so there,
